Hi, I'm the OP from the last thread (>>2463188), which died a few days ago. Interest was shown, so let's keep this alive.

Internet connection speed doesn't matter at all. You can use tools that utilizes google's APIs to make a copy like this one:

(not gonna delete it anytime soon; let me know if something has not been copied properly)

Currently in the process of re-doing ALL of my JustSyl stuff so I have the best resolutions of everything, and no copies of pictures from anything, due to the large file dumps we had last thread.

This is going to take me an extremely long time. Expect it within the next two weeks. I'm hoping I can get it done before then, and expect some errors in it, too, like possible double files. I'm only human after all.

I've downloaded everything from her Tumblr and removed files that had higher quality versions leaked, but there were still 401 files remaining. Probably 50+% of those had HQ versions distributed as part of reward for patrons; and I have no idea where and how to search for them.

Speaking of getting complete collection of someone's work, I have a question that is not exactly relevant to this thread but this is still the best place to ask imho.

So, how do you download everything from someone's Tumblr so that resulting filenames make sense? (have post ID in it or smth like that, preferably customizable with some kind of template).

I've used tools that can do exactly this, but target other sites:

For pixiv there is this one, <https://github.com/Nandaka/PixivUtil2/releases> and for FurAffinity this one does the job well enough: <https://github.com/crouvpony47/furdown>

But for Tumblr the only halfway decent tool is TumblrThree, and AFAIK it cannot do anything with filenames at all.

I have a suggestion for you:

This is the method I often use for organizing stuff from multiple sources. Download all anons' drives, possibly also Tumblr and Furaffinity dumps (some tools for that mentioned in >>2493836), then use a duplicate-eraser tool. The "Duplicate File Eraser" by Fatih Kodak (freeware) is my favorite, but you can ofc use another one. Let it delete duplicates from your less structured folder, and by the end you'll have a relatively small list of actually unique content you really need to sort manually. Who knows, maybe you have some missing HQ commissions or one of two missing sets 0w0

I finally finished all of these I'm pretty sure, and I finished sorting my stuff. I'm sorting it by name of subjects rather than actual months of rewards, and I have a bunch of pictures leftover that seems like there would be sets with them or at least higher resolutions.

I also at one point ripped her tumblr, and have a bunch of single pictures saved into another separate folder. There might be copies of pictures in there, along with pictures of just random things, but I went through it two or three times to make sure there's no copies.

I'll upload both my finished work and the unknown pictures separately, sometime within the next few days.

I think in one of them I saw a few months missing in either 2016 or 2017, between Jan - April; least there wasn't any folder names for them that I saw.

It's essentially a mirror of exhentai, just riddled with a fuck ton of ads. So I guess extracting original quality pics from there is possible (but painful even with adblockers). May be useful sometimes if you don't happen to have access to eX.

I fully agree that anyone suggesting to go on myreadingmanga should be compressed in a 30% quality low-res jpeg, though. And when this site gets a hold of something first and everyone start pointing there instead of leaking a decent quality version, it makes me really sad. Heck, it took us (almost) three months to get one of homri's sets in good resolution (~120 MB vs. myreadingmanga's THREE AND A HALF.) (>>2494243)

Plus at hitomi.la you can easily download a whole manga in a zip file whereas at exhentai you have to be registered (and possibly paying?) and at MRM you have to save each damn individual page or individually save every image.

The only bad thing is that hitomi's search function is VERY abstract and confusing until you figure it out and know enough tags to find anything by.

Because it was crucified. Did you expect a thread 97% of which was Hydaria discussion (if that e-mail sharing can be even called that) to survive much longer? There was just one new leak not related to Hyd in the entire thread, ffs.

If you need anything from that thread, it still exists on third-party archives anyway.

I've noticed it's kinda a pain in the butt to detect changes in these drives. So I've made this.

It's a page that shows updates in some of the drives mentioned in OP post all in one place:

<https://html.house/q4163f22.html>

Supports GDrive only; and the selection is arbitrary - reply to this post if you feel like some drive should have (not) been added.

It's supposed to automatically update roughly once every 24 hours, but in its current state I cannot guarantee perfect consistency.

I'd appreciate any kind of feedback from you anons. And, if it does turn out to be stable, maybe a mention in the page linked in OP post? :3

I can add some, but adding all of them will just waste time, as many of them are huge and yet last updated >6 months ago. This script only reports changes made in last 32 days or so.

So, if you have a particular drive(s) you want to be checked more regularly, tell me its ID.

AFAIK it does so only for files you've touched.

If something was added in subdirectory you've never opened, it won't show up in activity log (at least in web version).

Oh my god Anon.

So proud of you.

I was the first person, always a year ago, to do a thread like this. I only posted a Homri drive back then. Now you are keeping my legacy on and so professionally.

You are like a son of mine that's successful in life. I am proud

I know Suito's drive maintainer reads this thread occasionally, so I'll point out some things that bother me.

There are three sets on e-hentai that differ in quality to those found in the drive:

1. <https://e-hentai.org/g/1211719/50bafa5af7/>

2. <https://e-hentai.org/g/1211713/a447a42447/>

^ for those two files in torrents have original names

3. <https://e-hentai.org/g/1196614/fff7a093c6/>

E-hentai versions are likely to be the same files distributed via Gumroad (though I can only confirm that for the third one myself), so, sadly, no really highres versions for those sets exist.

Thank you so much!!!

I use a program called Bulk Rename Utility to rename everything, by the way. Makes it super quick.

Though I will soon go back and update all the previous ones with the A & B labels; I don't know why I removed them.

Before I do, though.

Can I get any opinions on how I should do it? Should I have them all in one directory, with A01, A02, B01, B02, etc., or should I separate them into labelled directories (Clothed, Naked, Text, etc)?

I'm leaning towards the separated directories. Though I do like being able to flip through all of them while I'm fucking my hand.

I just wish there was a better way of categorizing them in a single directory, without using arbitrary indexing such as A, B, C, etc.

I don't personally think that progress art is useful when you have the finished product.

technical terms only take away the attention from the crime and criminal and puts it on the children and their bodies instead, ephebophilia is pedophilia but with a "fancier" and unknown term that people love to use because it's easily brushed away out of ignorance; using a different term protects pedophiles. now shut the fuck up.

What point? That they want to use a different term for pedophilia? A term that is useless and even harmful to children to justify their attraction to children? A term that is constantly used by people, especially so called "professionals" to "lessen" the crime "because the child isn't a child anymore, they're 15 or something" and shift the focus entirely on the victim as a justification of why the criminal raped them? That's what I'm talking about.

I don't like the term "shota," it has pedophilic roots and it's used with pedophilic connotations. Call that particular drawing shota or not, it's still art of a character who is 15, it doesn't matter if the actor is 21 or something.

Also no, I live in a country where the age of consent is 14, sometimes 12 or 13 because fuck kids, right?

By the way, who said I think those other drawings are allowed? I include all of them, not just that one, and that one isn't even the worse shit I've seen around here.
